TAMPA, Fla., March 15, 2018 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) -- Who doesn't love a good buried treasure tale? And this one is even more intriguing because it's the combined effort of a grandfather and his grandson. Co-authored by Patrick Carberry and his sidekick, 7-year old Christian Patrick, "PaPa and Christian's Great Adventures: The Treasure Awaits" (ISBN: 978-1483480923), is written in a way that encourages kids to spend quality time with their grandparents.

It shows how different generations can have fun together, teaches valuable lessons about life and family, and sparks imaginations too.

"PaPa and Christian's Great Adventures: The Treasure Awaits" weaves a charming tale that is all at once endearing and engrossing.

"The rich and inviting illustrations guide children on an exciting journey that shows them how to set and complete goals while demonstrating how family and faith in God is more important than finding the treasure," Carberry says.

“It’s a message not only for children, but parents and grandparents as well.”

Carberry says that the experience of writing this book with his grandson has been enlightening and rewarding. “Every generation is important in shaping the life of a young child. We can all learn and grow from experiences and stories we share,” Carberry adds.

Before writing the book, the two adventurers actually went on this treasure quest together.

“The experience has proven beneficial to us both,” he says. “Not only has Christian learned a little about life along the way, but he’s also learned real-life skills in helping me to edit, choose illustrations, and working with the publisher. He’s learning about the value of work and money as well.”
