Ozenghar was recognized for her role as the behind-the-scenes powerhouse at mortgage advisory services firm Transformational Mortgage Solutions (TMS), where she works to help lenders reach their strategic potential. Focusing on Business Process Improvement principles, Ozenghar spearheads the development of lender clients' workflow, helping them understand and improve upon their operations rapidly. Her proprietary consulting methodologies have guided lenders through complete metamorphoses, increasing profit margins by repositioning their approach to business processes and company culture.

"During the current lower-volume, profitability-challenged cycle, there is a greater need than ever for mortgage lenders to cultivate lean, efficient operations before investing in digital mortgage solutions," said Ozenghar. "In working with each TMS client, my goal is to identify their unique set of challenges and prescribe company-specific solutions that help them deliver an exceptional borrower experience and operate at their highest potential."

"Beth has helped solidify TMS' reputation as the mortgage advisory firm that can cinch the belt on any lending operation by mapping and coaching for lean, precision performance," said David Lykken, founder and chief transformation officer at Transformational Mortgage Solutions. "Her ESP – expertise, sincerity and passion – exemplify the TMS mantra: people, process, product, purpose and passion. I commend Beth for this well-deserved honor."

"This year's group of Insiders exemplify what it means to get the job done and done right," said HW Online Editor Caroline Basile. "Each of the mortgage and housing professionals we honored made incredible contributions to their companies' successes and we're excited to recognize their achievements."
