Says Sophie, Marketing Manager at UltFone: “During the COVID-19 outbreak, what should people do when they find their phone is stuck in recovery mode, restart loop or unresponsive to touch? Especially people who live in zones with severe epidemics. We are greatly concerned about the ones who encountered phone system issues during COVID-19. They are left wondering whether they should risk going outside to repair shop or fix the problem at home with an online repair software.”

Stirred by customers seeking assistance for their phone problems in the epidemic zones, UltFone has collected and compiled a comprehensive mobile phone problem repair guide to illustrate all possible methods to fix phone problems indoors or outside. Based on several key aspects, including supported scenarios, repair time, supported devices, potential risks, ease of use, and preparations, they tend to suggest that users choose to fix the iPhone problems at home with software.
