

Zero Budget Indie Film 'Night, Mother' scores 3 Webby Nominations

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 15, 2022 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – “Night, Mother,” the “hybrid” feature film from Executive Producer Sheila Houlahan, is an Official Nominee of the 2022 Webby Awards in the following 3 Virtual and Remote Categories: Media & Entertainment, Technical Achievement, and Best Audience Integration.

Filmed in 2021 on Twitch.tv during the height of the pandemic, this daring new “hybrid-film” merged cutting edge audience integration and live performances with traditional cinematic media, all while curating accessible/equitable mental health resources and LMHC on-call moderators for all audience members.

A post-film panel discussion centered on mental health and suicide prevention with notable panelists such as Khleo Thomas (Holes) and Eve Crevoshay, Executive Director of “Take This.”

“I wanted to ensure that our audience was taken care of while being exposed to incredibly triggering content,” said Executive Producer Sheila Houlahan.

“Twitch.tv gives filmmakers access to dialoguing with audience members in real time, and it only made sense that we’d have resources/cool-down rooms/LMHC providers available to any and all who would need them.”

As a zero-budget production, “Night, Mother” is an astonishing contender in the company of fellow nominees such as: Call of Duty, Blumhouse, Paramount, and HBO Max.

“I can’t believe this is happening! What a dream it is to see a narrative about suicide next to some of the greatest names in media today,” stated Houlahan in response to the nominations.

Winners of The Webby Awards will be announced on April 26, 2022 and the ceremony will take place on May 16, 2022 in New York City.
